TWENTY CENTS

Champs make it as team

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN — The 1986-87 Venice Red Devils basketball team was just that — a team. Whereas Jesse Hall was a one-man gang at times last season, the Red Devils learned to rely more and more on their other players this season. But with five seconds left in Saturday night's Illinois Class A state championship game, the Devils' hopes were squarely in the hands of Hall.

The 6-3 All-American was left alone at the free throw line with Venice tied with Okawville 54-54. It was a one-and-one situation, meaning if he missed the first one, he would get no second chance. As the first shot went up, Venice fans' minds flashed back to 1975, and another state title.

Hall's shot nestled comfortably into the net, and so did his second one. A desperation heave by Okawville's Jeff Leuchtefeld, who had kept the Rockets in the game with 29 points, fell short as the buzzer sounded and pandemonium broke out at the Assembly Hall.

The Venice Red Devils were state champions.

"I dreamed about making those shots for a long time," Hall said as he headed up the tunnel to the locker room. "I've dreamed about making them in the NCAA Tournament, too."

Hall will be playing at Michigan State next season, following in the footsteps of Los Angeles Laker guard Magic Johnson, who also won a state title in his senior year in high school. But it couldn't have been more thrilling than the end of Saturday night's game.

In the first Illinois championship game ever played between two St. Louis-area schools, the Devils fell behind Okawville 13-6 early and trailed for much of the first half. But it was 29-29 at halftime, and Venice led by as much as five in the second half.

But Leuchtefeld, son of Rocket coach Dave Leuchtefeld, kept firing away from outside to bring Okawville back. Then Doug Dingwerth's jump shot gave Okawville a 51-50 lead, with 3:13 left. The lead changed hands a couple of times before Darren Stine made a free throw with 1:40 left to tie the game at 54-54.

Venice worked the ball for a last shot, but Hall was fouled with 1:01 left. A 56 percent free throw shooter, he missed, but Wilfred Wigfall knifed in for the biggest rebound of his career. The Devils held onto the ball until Dingwerth fouled Hall — away from the ball — with five seconds left.

"You just don't make a call in that, at that time," said Okawville coach Dave Leuchtefeld, Jeff's father. "He (referee Richard Ropok) knows that now."

Hall's two free throws will go down in Red Devil history as Venice, the team that supposedly couldn't shoot free throws, won it all at the foul line.

"That was last year's team," assistant coach Rick Everage said.

The state title was inevitable if you had asked Everage about it. He had promised that the Devils were going all the way at the Freeburg Regional. Then, after Friday's quarterfinal win over Pearl City, he sounded more determined.

"We're on a mission," Everage said. Mission accomplished.

MESD bill goes to committee

A state legislative committee may take up a bill this week to increase Metro East Sanitary District boundaries. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Wyvett Young, D-East St. Louis, would expand MESD boundaries to include communities in the bluff area in the MESD taxing district. Surface water from the bluff area is thought to be one of the causes of drainage problems in this area.

Costello meets with Swift

The hoped-for reopening of the National City meat-packing plant was the subject of a Friday meeting between St. Clair County Board Chairman Jerry Costello and Swift Independent Co., which owns the plant. Costello talked with Swift officials in Dallas about reopening the plant. The meeting comes after Swift announced in January it would not reopen the plant after saying last fall the plant would be reopened. Swift cited disagreements with labor officials in pulling out of the planned reopening. A spokesman for Costello said Friday's talks were productive and more talks are set in two weeks. The plant could bring 400 jobs to the area.

Man shot to death identified

A man shot to death in the 2100 block of Ohio Avenue in Granite City last week was identified as Richard Choat, 23, of Madison. He was shot in the face last Wednesday after what area residents thought was an attempted burglary.

Q: What do you think is the biggest local issue in the April elections?

Larry Curry

"Issues will vary from ward to ward. We need to retain an alderman of character and integrity rather than settle for just a character."

Melody Rayl

"I think, right now, one of the biggest issues is your (Press-Record Journal's) political endorsements. I thought that was really crummy the way you handled your so-called endorsements. You didn't investigate. I was outraged."

NEXT WEEK: Do you think people living on the bluffs should help pay for drainage problems in this area, as has been proposed in the state legislature?

Hagnauer, Yates honored by Elks

By Bill Bagby
Staff writer

Township Supervisor Nellie Hagnauer and football coach Ron Yates were honored last week as Citizens of the Year by the Granite City Elks.

Approximately 150 people attended a banquet at the Elks' lodge March 11 honoring the men.

Matt Melucci, former director of administration for Madison County, introduced Hagnauer.

"His job is that of a public servant," Melucci said about Hagnauer. "I for one have learned important values from this man."

Hagnauer, who is also chairman of the Madison County

Board, thanked board members and others for their support. "I've been surrounded by good people," Hagnauer said. "This is something I'll always remember."

Hagnauer, 59, has served as township supervisor since 1981. He served six years as an assistant supervisor prior to that. He has been a member of the county board since 1965, and chairman since 1971. Hagnauer is a native and life-long resident of Granite City.

Yates was introduced by former high school football coach Keith Parker. Parker said the Warriors' victory over the East St. Louis Flyers in October was good publicity for the community and brought credibility to football in Granite City. The victory broke East St. Louis' 44-game winning streak.

"Ron, we're awful proud of you and all the boys," Parker said. "Let's keep it going."

Yates thanked his assistant coaches, Roy Logan and Bob Stegemeier, for their help and support. "Let's keep it going," Yates said.

Yates has been head football coach at the high school for three years, and served as an assistant coach prior to that. Last season, Yates led the Warriors to their first playoff berth since 1981.

Namekit Precinct 12 Committeeman Cookie Zeffoff, exalted ruler of the local Elks, served as master of ceremonies of the first, annual program.

"This is a first tonight and we hope it's going to work," Zeffoff said.

Proceeds from the program benefited the Elks' scholarship fund, said Don Watson, scholarship committee chairman. The program was the "kick-off" for the fund, Watson said.

"This has been a long, long lasting desire of the Granite City Elks Lodge," he said. "We hope this thing can grow and grow and grow."

St. Louis sports writer Bob Burns was guest speaker and answered questions from the audience.

For a limo, Rehnquist rewrites the rules

WASHINGTON — Chief Justice William Rehnquist has one-upped the legendary Judge Roy Bean. He is the law east and west of the Pecos.

When we pointed out that Rehnquist was apparently violating a specific act of Congress, he simply penned a learned legal opinion exempting himself from the law. And who can challenge an opinion of the nation's top judge?

The law that Rehnquist continues to scoff at restricts the use of chauffeur-driven government limousines to a select list of high muckety-mucks. The chief justice and his colleagues were deliberately left off the VIP list.

As we reported, Rehnquist ignored the congressional ban and continued to have a government chauffeur drive him to and from his Capitol Hill office. When we wrote that Rehnquist told the chief justice had ordered the matter looked into by one of the court's legal experts. And guess what? The Supreme Court's legal interpreter came down on the boss's side.

We pointed out that Congress had provided a loophole for officials who felt they simply must have the convenience and cachet of a chauffeur-driven limousine. An exemption could be obtained on grounds of personal security—for instance, by an official who had received a death threat.

But Congress was explicit in its requirements. Any official trying to take advantage of the limousine loophole must certify in writing that "highly unusual circumstances present a clear and present danger," and must provide details to Congress backing up this belief.

This chief justice hasn't done. He made a perfunctory stab at justifying his continued use of a limo by citing the security loophole. But essentially he just interpreted the law in a way that benefits him.

Sources who have seen the closely held Rehnquist opinion told us it makes two points. First, it avers that Rehnquist needs a chauffeur-driven limo so that his hands and mind will be free for reading the newspaper, conversing on the mobile phone and catching up on his homework while commuting between the Supreme Court and his suburban home.

Second, the opinion just plain asserts that there is security threat for use of a limousine, alleging that the chief justice has received death threats sometime in the past. But no specifics are given as the law requires.

So the chief justice of the United States appears to be violating the law still, and there doesn't seem to be much anyone can do about it. It raises an interesting series of questions, though: What if another limo-loving federal official, inspired by Rehnquist's example, decides to challenge the law too, and is prosecuted? If the case is appealed all the way to the Supreme Court, will Rehnquist excuse himself from the deliberations? Or will he assign himself to write the opinion—in the back seat, on his way to work?

FALL FROM POWER: In 1957, according to confidential documents we have seen, nine of the world's biggest and most powerful banks were American. The three biggest were headquartered in New York City.

Currently, only two American banks rank among the world's top 15.

Citibank is No. 8 and Bank of America is No. 12.

Which country has displaced the United States as the world's banking giant? Japan, of course. Seven of the top 10 banks in the world—including the top four—are based in Japan.

The reasons Japanese banks are not as heavily regulated, and they offer significantly better terms to borrowers.

HAZARDOUS DUTY: Soviet pilots are closely monitored by their bosses on the ground, who are always concerned about airborne defections. Soviet commanders in Afghanistan are even more suspicious about Afghan pilots so much so, according to intelligence sources, that all air raids there are now carried out by Soviet pilots. But even they are warned that if they deviate significantly from their assigned flight paths, they will be shot down.

REFUGEE BIAS: Does the Immigration and Naturalization Service discriminate against Central Americans? A General Accounting Office study done for Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., suggests it does. The auditors studied immigration figures on four countries of origin and found that 80 percent of refugees from Poland were granted asylum, as were 64 percent from Iran. But only 15 percent from Nicaragua and 4 percent from El Salvador succeeded in obtaining asylum.

CLEVER CAMELS: A group of congressional investigators just returned from a fact-finding trip to India and Pakistan with a tale that would astound a yarn-spinner. The investigators were told that drug smugglers on both sides of the India-Pakistan border are using "homing camels" to carry heroin and opium unscouted across the deserts to waiting confederates. There was no explanation of how the four-footed dope couriers evade roving camelherders.

James Madison, forgotten leader

By David T. Hardy

The name of our capital, a monument and Mount Vernon all commemorate George Washington, the Father of this Country. Jefferson's monument, and his home at Monticello, are memorials to his genius.

To find the monument dedicated to James Madison, the Father of the Constitution, author of many of our Bill of Rights, you'll have to find his cemetery in Orange, Virginia.

In the District of Columbia, Madison (who hated traveling and died nearly bankrupt) has a hotel, a bank, and part of the Library of Congress to his name, but no memorial.

We celebrate Labor Day (by not working), the birthday of Columbus (who discovered a distant island for a foreign monarch) and sundry other holidays; we recognize Mother's Day, Arbor Day, Flag Day and (by Congressional resolution) Colesony Awareness Day.

March 16, the birthday of James Madison, the "Father of the American Constitution," passes unnoticed.

In part, this is to be expected. It is hard to picture the diminutive Virginian as a towering bronze figure.

He was always a hesitant and nervous speaker; his carefully-chosen words, Jefferson's clarion tones, Madison's impact was measured in his deeds, not his speeches. And what an impact it was!

At 23, Madison committed himself irrevocably to the revolutionary cause by becoming a member of his local Committee of Safety; he soon found himself commanding a regiment of militia.

A month after his 25th birthday, he was elected to the Virginia Constitutional Convention. Religious liberty had always been a deep concern to Madison, and in the convention the future author of our First Amendment quietly persuaded the delegates to broaden Virginia's guarantees of religious freedoms.

The convention's first draft had proposed that "all men should enjoy the fullest toleration in the exercise of religion"; Madison succeeded in changing this government "toleration" into a statement of individual rights. "All men are equally entitled to the free exercise of religion."

To so influence the first American state Bill of Rights would be an accomplishment of which anyone might boast. For Madison, it was but a beginning.

The following year the legislature appointed him to the Council of State. Soon his influence extended beyond Virginia; at 29, he became the youngest man ever to sit in the Continental Congress.

In 1786 he undertook extensive historical studies of various republics. Few ages have been as history-conscious as the late 18th century, and Madison's ability to discuss the failings and strengths of political units over the centuries was a powerful asset in later life.

John Quincy Adams would later speak of his "inexhaustible resources of his gigantic mind," hardly an exaggeration, for Madison shaped the course of the nation and reshaped the fate of European confederations. Madison won a reputation as a biologist, a seat in the American Philosophical Society, and renown as a translator of Greek and Latin classics.

Selected as one of the Virginia representatives to what became the Constitutional Convention, Madison demonstrated his skills at drafting and negotiation; no delegate had a greater impact on the final result than the diminutive Virginian, now all of 38 years of age.

A few months later, he collaborated with Alexander Hamilton and John Jay to produce a newspaper series that became known as "The Federalist Papers." Written under (at one point) time pressures (at one point) Madison alone was writing four essays a week, and later recalled having barely enough time to give each a proofreading, the series still ranks two centuries later, among the foremost American political works.

Madison completed his 29 essays and immediately discarded the role of theorist for that of practical statesman.

Virginia ratifying convention, and spent his 37th birthday on the road. In the convention the reticent speaker (the official reporter at points complains that his delivery was "faint to be taken down") took the lead for the federalists, against such considerable foes as Patrick Henry, Richard Henry Lee and George Mason.

Madison's explanations may have been hard to hear, but they carried the day against the impetuous orations of the famed Henry.

Henry did not forget; a year later he blocked Madison's nomination to the first Senate.

The move merely added more laurels to the Virginian's wreath. He ran for the House and won, largely upon his promises to add a bill of rights to the Constitution.

The new Congressman speedily distilled the hundred-plus proposals for a bill of rights into a convenient package of amendments, introduced it, and forced a largely reluctant House to vote on it. Madison went on to serve two terms in the House, playing a vital role in the formation of the Democratic-Republican party that swept his friend Jefferson into power.

He then served eight years as Secretary of State, and in 1807 was elected the fourth President of the United States.

For most Americans, service as the Chief Executive would be the apogee of a lifetime; for Madison, it was almost an anticlimax. Two decades later, approaching 80, the still vigorous Madison was taking part in a convention and writing rebuttals to the nullification movement.

Perhaps our failure to recognize March 16 is characteristic of Madison's own temperament; he accomplished much, but without flamboyance or spectacle.

All the same, the Republic could do far worse than to recognize the day the Father of our Constitution entered the world.

An inside look at a major medical center

This is a view of Doctors Clinic you have probably never seen. This is the way a major medical center looks to the highly skilled technologists who work there. Theirs is a world of remarkably sophisticated diagnostic equipment, all designed with your good health in mind.

Like all thoroughly equipped, modern major medical centers, Doctors Clinic has the latest, most advanced tools readily available. Everything from ultrasound to MRI (revolutionary diagnostic imaging equipment that works without radiation).

While the average person may have a tough time understanding how all of this new medical technology works, simply knowing that it does is a comfort in itself.

Whoever said a picture is worth a thousand words was conservative. Some of the pictures we've taken have saved lives.

Nurse assistants graduate at VLTC

By Valerie Evenden
Staff writer

VENICE — Fourteen nurse assistants were honored at graduation ceremonies last week at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center.

About 150 family members and friends of the graduates attended the ceremonies and were welcomed by Peter Ponce, director of the adult education and vocational school.

The Rev. Samuel Boda, pastor of St. John Lutheran Church in Granite City, offered the invocation.

The newest list of Nurse Assistant graduates includes:

Sharon Bean, Ora Carr, Lue Janie Ellison, Bea Fouts, Sadye Hicks, Tammy Johnson, Mairice Jones, Schell Lemon, Donald Lockett, Ruth Mesey, Tracey Osburn, Donna Roberts, Edith Shrum and Rhonda Skinner.

Registered Nurse Assistant courses at Venice-Lincoln are fortunate to be one of the programs offered in Illinois and approved for state certification, Ponce said.

The program has been in operation for 19 years and consistently shows a high employment rate among its graduates, the director said.

Five of the 14 graduates already had been accepted for employment by graduation night, Ponce reported.

Those enrolled must successfully complete a 12-week training course, which includes both classroom and clinical experience, before receiving a registered nurse assistant certificate.

The commencement address was given by Teresa Alexander, a graduate of the VLTC Nurse

Assistant program and now a licensed practical nurse. The speaker is employed at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

Poems written by Lue Janie Ellison were read by Ellison and Shrum as a salute to their classmates.

Ponce presented certificates to the graduates and gave perfect-attendance awards to Mesey, Osburn and Fouts.

Rev. Boda closed the ceremonies with a benediction. A social hour concluded the festivities.

Dunbar may go to city

MADISON — The City Council has decided to ask that the former Dunbar School be conveyed to joint Madison-Venice city ownership.

Instead of selling the site at an auction, as the Madison School Board decided to do March 5, the cities would seek to gain ownership for a token payment of $1.

Madison officials said the request might be submitted on the basis of converting the unused school into a historic education site. But they also hinted it might then be turned over to a neighborhood group. The group, including Dunbar alumni, would try to convert the aging structure into an apartment complex for senior citizens.

Alderman Norris Horton urged that the city attempt to acquire ownership, and council members agreed to contact the Board of Education.

It was related that Dunbar served as a public school for 73 years and was opened for use 86 years ago.

In other business, Casper Nighossian spoke to the Madison Council on the status of the proposed water line extension to annexed areas south of the main part of the city.

He said the terms of the first draft are being modified.

Gary Lee Sloan, 21, found; murder victim

Gary Lee Sloan, 21, of Marilyn Drive in the Bethel Terrace Trailer Court, Caseyville, son of Lee Roy Sloan of Granite City, was found dead in a gully off County Line Road two miles west of the Troy-O'Fallon Road in the unincorporated area of Madison County at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday, March 11, 1987.

Authorities said he was a murder victim. The Major Case Squad has been called in to help investigate. Lt. Dale Fredeking of the Fairview Heights Police Department, a spokesman for the Major Case Squad, said Mr. Sloan been shot more than one time in the head with what was believed to be a small-caliber weapon.

Fredeking said investigators are not sure where the shooting took place or what the motive was. He was born in East St. Louis and was a lifelong resident of Caseyville.

Other survivors include his mother and stepfather, Phyllis and Stanley Kirby, both of Collinsville; grandmothers, Mamie Hazelwood, Collinsville, and Mildred Corey, Granite City; and one sister, Stacy Kirby, and a stepbrother, Derek Kirby, both of Collinsville.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Herr Caseyville Chapel, 300 W. Lincoln, Caseyville. Burial was at Lake View Memorial Gardens, Belleville.

WALLET TAKEN FROM PURSE

Christine Hayes, 301 W. Second St., Madison, reported March 11 she was shopping in Schermer's Supermarket and an unknown person stole a billfold from her purse that was in a cart. She said another customer reached across her basket to pick up an item on the shelves and, when the person left, she discovered her wallet was missing.

LOCAL HOME BURGLARIZED

Judy Penogio of 2529 Nameoki Drive told police March 8 a burglar entered her home and ransacked two bedrooms. Taken were a portable stereo, a jar of pennies, two tapes, a bottle of cologne, a police scanner and a wooden chest. A small pry bar was left by the intruder on a bed in the home. Value of the missing items is more than $480.

BIKES STOLEN ON 14TH

Todd Housend of 2067 14th St. told police March 3 someone stole his bicycle from his front yard. Three boys aged 10-15 were seen taking the bicycle of Stephanie Durham, 2077 14th St., from her front yard.

3 INJURED IN TRUCK-CAR COLLISION ON ILLINOIS

Garren D. Carroll, 17, of rural Granite City was charged with failure to yield the right of way at a stop sign after his pickup truck collided with a car driven by Maria W. Hayes, 34, East St. Louis, at 8:11 p.m. March 7 at Illinois 3 and West Pontoon Road.

Carroll's truck rolled over onto its top and slid 100 feet on the roadway, police said.

Hayes and her passenger, Franklin J. Banks, 57, of Brooklynn, were taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center. Carroll was also injured but was not treated.

FELONY CHARGES FILED AGAINST MADISON MAN

Larry Lee Cox, 32, of 103 Grenzer Homes, Madison, was charged by the Madison County state's attorney's office with one felony count each of burglary and theft.

Granite City police allege Cox attempted to remove a battery March 5 from a truck owned by Donald Connor, 1619 Edison Ave. He also allegedly failed to pay for $10.45 worth of gasoline March 6 at Sonic Gas, 1817 Madison Ave.

Felony charges were issued, police said, because Cox is on parole.

Police investigating rape by masked men

GRANITE CITY - Granite City's Madison and Madison County authorities are investigating the rape of a 17-year-old Granite City woman March 3.

The woman told police she was walking on Madison Avenue at 9:30 that night when two men, wearing ski masks, abducted her at gunpoint. The men were driving a late-model blue car.

The men took the woman to the levee off of Illinois 3 and raped her. The men then drove her to Illinois 3 and W. 20th Street, where they threw her out of the vehicle, police related.

The woman walked to 19th Street and Niedringhaus Avenue, from where she called a friend, who called Madison authorities. The woman was taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

NAIL GROWTH

Unlike a hair which takes to grow for a couple of years and then rest for a while, a nail grows constantly. On average, a fingernail grows about one inch every eight months. No one knows why but the longer a finger, the faster a nail seem to grow. Thus, the middle fingernail grows fastest, whereas nails on the thumb and pinkie are slower. Toenails grow only one-third to one-half as fast as fingernails. Some conditions cause nails to grow faster than usual. Among them are pregnancy, and an excess of thyroid hormone. Injury to a nail speeds its growth during recovery. As with skin, psoriasis makes nails grow much faster than normal.

Have you noticed how your hair seems to stop growing during the winter months? It doesn't stop entirely, it just slows down. In any case, the up-keep of your hair should not stop. And a good cut is just as important now as during the warmer months. The stylists at RAZOR'S EDGE will give you a designed cut that will fit your lifestyle and have you looking up-to-date. You'll feel comfortable and relaxed coming to our salon at 2109 Johnson Rd. Smoke detector bill voted by committee

SPRINGFIELD — Legislation requiring smoke detectors in all dwellings was endorsed by an Illinois House committee last week.

The House Consumer Affairs Committee voted 13-0 to send the bill to the House after hearing dramatic testimony from Springfield Fire Chief Tom Armstead, who believes detectors would have saved the lives of four young children and a woman who perished in a fire March 8.

Glenn Walters of Alton, president of the Associated Firefighters of Illinois, and Kenneth Long, president of the Godfrey Fire District, were among the representatives of fire services at the committee hearing to urge passage of the bill.

Long said a state smoke detector law was particularly needed for areas served by fire districts, because "we don't have the power by resolution to force installation or maintenance, and it's definitely needed."

Several Illinois municipalities have passed mandatory smoke detector ordinances.

Detectors have been credited with saving lives in several recent fires.

Armstead said firefighters had arrived within four minutes to put out a fire at an apartment in which four children, ranging in age from 3 to 7, and the mother of three of them, died. "We did our job as best we could and we still lost their lives. We need your help in this."

Tom O'Connell of the Fire Prevention Division of the Chicago Fire Department said 85-90 percent of the fire deaths in that city were in buildings with no (or non-working) smoke detectors. Chicago already has a mandatory smoke detector ordinance.

O'Connell also brought a slide show put together by the Illinois Firechief Association promoting smoke detector laws. It contrasted shots of happy playing children with grim fire scenes.

The sponsor of the bill, Rep. John Matijevich, D-North Chicago, said 38 states have laws requiring smoke detectors.

He suggested it was ironic Illinois does not have a law: the smoke detector was invented in this state and over half of the smoke detectors sold in the world are manufactured at a plant in Aurora.

A virtually identical bill sponsored by Matijevich last year was a few votes short of passing the House after some legislators contended it interfered with individual rights and compared it to the controversial mandatory seatbelt use law.

The bill would require smoke detectors within 15 feet of every sleeping room for all dwellings by July 1, 1988. New or substantially remodeled residential buildings, after Dec. 31, 1987, would need wired smoke detectors.

It would be a Class B misdemeanor, punishable by up to 6 months in jail and up to $500 fine for failing to install or maintain smoke detectors.

Tampering with smoke detectors could be punishable by up to a year in jail and up to a $1,000 fine, with a class 4 felony carrying up to three years in prison for subsequent offenses.

Matijevich said he expected most people would voluntarily comply with the law.

"How many times do we get a chance to pass a bill that saves lives?" he asked.

TWO WOMEN ARRESTED IN TRIANGLE PARK MISHAP

Carrie Lynn Redick, 21, and Denise A. Pirie, 29, both of 2218 E. 24th St., were arrested March 12 for battery.

Redick allegedly slapped April Connor, 15, of the 2500 block of Benton Street in the face at Triangle Park, causing a fight. Connor was struck in the head with a soda bottle during the altercation.

When Connie Wethy, 16, of the 2290 block of Illinois Avenue tried to break up the fight, she was also struck in the face and shoved.

Redick and Pirie were released upon each posting $50 cash bail.

PASSENGER HURT IN MISHAP

Virginia Hall, 58, of St. Genevieve, Mo., was injured at 12:30 p.m. March 12 when the truck she was a passenger in, driven by Jimmie L. Hall, 83, collided with a car driven by Catherine M. Graham, of 1327 Rhodes St., at Edwardsville and Nameoki roads.

ARRESTED FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT, PROPERTY DAMAGE

Jerry R. Sedabres, 30, of 3917 Oakmont Drive, Apt. 2, Fontenot Beach, was charged by Granite City police March 12 with disorderly conduct and criminal damage to property.

He allegedly shouted profanities at his wife, Cheryl Sedabres, at 1306 Niedringhaus Ave., and also kicked and dented her auto while it was parked at 2939 Marshall Ave. Sedabres was released after posting $154 cash bail.

$400 CONCRETE SAW TAKEN

Joseph Hemmer of Belleville told Granite City police March 12 a thief took a light blue gas-operated concrete saw from in front of the Granite City Post Office, 2350 Madison Ave. Hemmer was inside the post office when the theft occurred. Value of the saw is $400.

Network's anchorman notes flaws in arms sale coverage

Peter Jennings' appearance and manner seem to bespeak an inhuman flawlessness. But as smooth as he is, Jennings is not afraid to say he and his colleagues in network television news have made mistakes, including overplaying the Iran arms sale/Contra aid when the story broke.

Jennings, anchor and senior editor of ABC's World News Tonight since 1983, was in St. Louis March 10 and early March 11.

He broadcast World News Tonight from the ABC News Bureau in St. Louis Tuesday evening, and talked to reporters Tuesday morning (although he conceded, "It's the dumbest idea that journalists talk to journalists like this").

The next morning he moderated the taping of an Ask The Media session with St. Louisans and media representatives.

In his chat with reporters Tuesday, Jennings alleged the TV networks went overboard at the beginning of what he calls "the Iran affair"—a "rather neutral" term. When the story broke, he said, some journalists saw it as a scandal of Watergate proportions.

"We did too much coverage in the beginning," Jennings said. "And we've paid the price." Viewers have become uninterested in intensive daily coverage of the situation, he said, but he believes they are still looking for updates on new developments.

"I think people were interested in the Tower Commission report," Jennings said. "Having gone through the excesses of the beginning, we'll be more moderate from now on."

Another area where he believes the networks have been weak is in their coverage of racial strife in South Africa.

Because of news blackouts imposed by the white-ruled

South African government, it is not as easy for the networks to get information and visuals from the areas of unrest. Consequently, Jennings said, the news organizations are not doing as much coverage as they should be.

"I think we've been bad in South Africa," he said. "It's an 'out-of-sight, out-of-mind' syndrome."

While he is willing to expose his professional warts, Jennings is also proud to note when he and his colleagues have taken particular care to get a story right. For example, he said, he was pleased with ABC's decision to hold its live report on the release of the Tower Commission report until White House Correspondent Sam Donaldson had reviewed it.

"We were eight minutes behind CBS and NBC," Jennings said. "We gave Sam a chance to read the report, or the relevant parts of it. We waited until he literally had something to say."

Jennings said his current position as sole anchor of ABC's flagship newscast "is probably not the most fun position" he has had, although he enjoys the opportunity to edit the newscast.

He most enjoyed his days as chief foreign correspondent for ABC and as the London-based foreign desk anchor for World News Tonight when the program had three anchors.

A native of Canada, Jennings began his career in broadcast journalism in 1959 at an Ontario radio station. He anchored the first commercial network national news in Canada before joining ABC in New York in 1964.

He previously anchored ABC's evening news from 1965 to 1967. Last year, a Gallup Poll commissioned by the Times Mirror Co. found Jennings ranked second to Walter Cronkite in "believability" among newsmen.

Is it best to drive at 55 mph?

The following essay was submitted to the AAA-Chicago Motor Club by Edwin Lampitt, a student at Granite City High School.

The essay was selected as the "best submitted" by students from this area of the state and is a finalist for a $500 scholarship to a college.

Here is Lampitt's essay:

No other country in the world can boast of such a vast transportation network as the United States.

According to the Hertz Corporation's annual travel poll, 78.2 percent of all traveling last year took place in cars, vans and trucks. The National Safety Council states that these vehicles, operated by an estimated 188 million licensed drivers, are responsible for driving over one trillion miles each year.

Unfortunately, this extensive amount of traveling results in a staggering number of fatal motor vehicle accidents. The National Safety Council also contends that, in 1983, motor vehicle accidents were the leading cause of accidental death overall, and the leading cause of accidental death of persons between the ages of 1 and 76.

Obviously, no safety measures can eliminate all motor vehicle accidents. However, the Emergency Highway Energy Conservation Act, adopted in 1974, had a dramatic impact on the number of motor vehicle fatalities. This Act, creating a national speed limit of 55 m.p.h., was designed to conserve motor vehicle fuel.

In addition to saving fuel, the Act saved human lives, something far more valuable. The United States' Department of Transportation states that, in 1973, over 54,000 people were killed in traffic accidents. Just one year later, after the new speed limit became effective, the death toll dropped by nearly 10,000.

Safety authorities attribute at least half of the lives saved to the implementation of the speed restraint legislation.

Many people were convinced that if additional lives were to be saved, further safety measures were imperative. Efforts have been made to implement these safety measures, but many plans have failed due to lack of public or private support.

Despite the failures, traffic safety can still be improved. Stricter enforcement of the laws which already exist can only help to curb the number of motor vehicle accidents.

According to a 1985 Illinois Department of Transportation report, the average speed of all vehicles on all types of Illinois highways was 62 m.p.h. This staggering statistic reveals that the average vehicle is traveling 7 m.p.h. above the maximum allowed by law.

This figure indicates that well over half of all drivers are not in compliance with the law. The speed restraint legislation, having less than ideal compliance, is typical in that it is often perceived as having an impact on civil liberty. Consequently, the law often meets resistance, regardless of the intent.

In a society where travel has become so necessary, we must continually strive to perfect the system.

Lives are at stake, and a step backward in the form of a higher speed limit would be devastating. Let us step forward.

Preamble sets tone for Constitution

"We the People of the United States, in Order to form a more perfect Union, establish Justice, insure domestic Tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general Welfare, and secure the Blessings of Liberty to ourselves and our Posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

While these oft-repeated words that begin the Constitution of the United States are familiar to millions, few give real thought to their meaning. After all, they offer no guarantees of freedoms, such as those found in the Bill of Rights. Likewise, they fail to delineate any portion of the federal government, as is found in the main text. Just what purpose is served by the preamble of the Constitution?

In a very real sense, the preamble is a framework for what is to follow in later articles and clauses of the Constitution. More than just a series of eloquent words, the preamble asserts a mandate: the sovereignty of the people over the mechanisms of government.

The Supreme Court, for example, has repeatedly referred to the preamble as direct evidence of the origin, scope and purposes of the Constitution. Roger B. Taney, who was a member of the court from 1836 to 1864, declared, "The words 'people of the United States' and 'citizens' are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the government, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives.

"They are what we familiarly call the 'sovereign people,' and every citizen is one of this people and a constituent member of this sovereignty."

In short, the people of the United States have the last word over the acts of their government. They are the sovereign source from which the government draws its authority to act.

While the language of the preamble is a lasting reminder of the power of the people, its inclusion in the Constitution was not intended merely to provide an aesthetic flourish. The reference to "we, the People" was a direct attempt to contribute to national unity in the early days of our nation.

Fear of a strong central government for the United States was very strong.

In fact, during the Philadelphia convention of 1787, the original preamble proposed by the Committee of Detail read as follows:

"We the People of the States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia, do ordain, declare and establish the following Constitution for the Government of Ourselves and our Posterity."

As 200 years of American history have proven, fears of the role of the federal government were unfounded. Rather than being an excuse for federal domination of the states, the preamble serves as a check against excesses and abuses.

Vadalabene returns to legislature

SPRINGFIELD — Sen. Sam Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, returned to his legislative duties in Springfield March 10, saying he was "ready but not quite raring to go."

He underwent multiple heart bypass surgery in December and has been recuperating at home. He was back in his ground-floor Statehouse office for the first time in three months.

He met with constituents until about 1 p.m. and then returned to his Springfield apartment to rest for the Senate sessions Wednesday and Thursday.

Vadalabene said he planned to participate in Senate committee meetings last week as well.

"I'm going to give it a whirl and see how it goes," the 20-year veteran of the legislature said. Vadalabene has been one of the most prolific sponsors of bills in the General Assembly in recent years. He said he planned to cut down considerably on that load this spring while he continues to recuperate.

"I'll have to make an adjustment. I won't be sponsoring nearly as much legislation as I normally do," he said.

He has already turned down several requests from lobbyists that he sponsor bills this session.

Eagles Auxiliary state president visits here

Beverly Warfield, Illinois Eagles Auxiliary state president, of Galesburg Auxiliary 518, visited the local Eagles Home during the weekend, accompanied by state officers.

Out-of-town guests were Glena Garwood, state vice president, Mount Carmel; Bev Gragert, past state president, state membership chairman and Central Regional president for Illinois and Indiana, Flora, Ill.; Betty Wendling, Southern Zone trustee at large and state Kidney Fund chairman, Effingham.

Hazel McCormick, state heart fund chairman, Alton; Lucille Smith, State Eagle Education Fund chairman, Alton; Evelyn Swinney, state treasurer, Wood River; Dianna Garrison, state disaster chairman, Northshore; Betty Rohn, state membership security chairman and past state president, Quincy; Nancy Buckingham, state project chairman for St. Jude's Children's Hospital, Rock Falls; Eleanor Everingham, state auxiliary mother and southern zone president, Alton; and Kathy Dulles, state inside guard, Shiloh.

On Friday evening, guests and members were served a fish fry, and Saturday morning they attended breakfast at the Grand Cafe.

On Saturday afternoon, local president Linda Clayton opened the meeting and thanked all who decorated the social room, especially Florence Hagnauer, week-end chairman.

The state chairman escort team, Captain Angie Buehler, Florence Hagnauer, Kathy Barnhart, Helen Lipchik, Ann Konopa, Dee Klesh, Vincine Zerlan, Yvonne Gray and Marilyn Laycock, all from Granite City, escorted to their stations the members of the ritual team, consisting of Lucille Smith, president; Betty Rohn, junior past president; Dianna Garrison, vice president; Evelyn Everingham, chaplain; and Nancy Buckingham, conductor.

The state president and state officers were introduced and presented with gifts by the local auxiliary, and the state president was presented with a money corsage.

An initiation ceremony was held for Nancy Reutzel, Cather Minerva Club donates funds

The Minerva Woman's Club held a business meeting in the home of June VanHorn. Clara Parker reported on a Red Society Tea that she and Sandra Hefelfelt attended recently in O'Fallon, Ill.

The club voted to donate $200 to the Granite City Scholarship Foundation and plans were made for the annual birthday party which will be held later this month.

Members present were Emma Jean Wyrostek, Joyce Toussaint, Rose Torosian, Ruth Thomsberry, Elaine Shipcoff, Margaret Rehagen, MarLean Manogian, Fran Holt, Shirley Goff, Mary Darnie, Helen Cook, Cathy Busch, Phyllis Brusatti, Marilyn Bodman and Beverly Benoit.

ine Kestoff, Delores Plouch and Joan Borowski, all from Granite City. Lucille Smith presided over the initiation and Conductor Nancy Buckingham presented the flag; the flag pledge was recited in unison; Grace Gasperin, of Collinsville, was the pianist.

Each state officer spoke on matters of interest pertaining to her chairmanship, followed by a discussion.

Warfield said the new members quota for the state for 1980-81 is 1,624 and so far 1,192 new members have been signed. Her theme for the year is "Fly With Me," and she asked that everyone strive to help reach the membership goal. Warfield's state project is St. Jude's Children's Hospital.

On Saturday evening a dinner, in honor of the visitors, was served at tables decorated in gold and purple. Glenna Garwood, state vice president, gave the blessing prior to the dinner. Guests and members were entertained at a Valentine dance hosted by the Aerie in the Eagles Home.

The quarterly Eagles Auxiliary District 7 meeting was hosted by Shiloh Auxiliary 545. Local members attending were Vincine Zerlan, Helen Lipchik, Ruth Jorgenson, Florence Hagnauer, Mary Horvat, Mary Nemeth, Leona Delaloye, Florence Stokes, Dee Klesh, Adele Wasylak and Bernadine Brinza.

The meeting was opened by Shiloh Auxiliary President Ellen Wallace. Helen Meyers, district conductor, Alton 254, escorted the state officers, the district officers and the district mother, Lucille Smith, Alton, into the meeting hall. State officers present were Kathy Dulles, trustee, Shiloh; Evelyn Swinney, treasurer, Wood River 2773; Hazel McCormick, Heart Fund chairman, Alton; Lucille Smith, State Eagles Education Fund chairman and district mother; Mary Stagner, past state president, Collinsville; and Hattie Ogle, district chairman, Collinsville.

Each guest was presented with a gift from the Shiloh president. The meeting was then turned over to the district officers: Hattie Ogle, chairman; Catherine Smith, junior past president, Alton; Vincine Zerlan, vice president; Grace City; Vera Johnson, chaplain, Shiloh; and Helen Meyers, conductor.

An initiation ceremony was conducted by the initiating team, consisting of Lucille Smith, Vera Johnson, Kathy Dulles, Mary Mueller, Helen Lipchik of Granite City and pianist Grace Gasperin.

A question and answer session was held and each guest spoke on her state chairmanship.

Auxiliary secretaries from Granite City, Wood River, Collinsville, Shiloh and Alton were recognized and each was given a gift.

It was voted to give $25 each to the State Heart Fund and the Eagles Education Fund.

The traveling trophy was awarded to Collinsville for the best attendance percentage for the year, and prizes for most members in attendance at the meeting were given to Granite City and Collinsville. Other prizes were won by Amelia Wiseman and Marion Conrad, Shiloh, St. Louis, Collinsville, and Ollie Halbert, Alton.

Wood River Auxiliary will host the next district meeting on May 3. The meeting closed with members singing a song. Prayer was offered by the chaplain, and a dinner was served by the host auxiliary after the meeting.

Trash hauler will request exemption

GRANITE CITY — An exemption from recently added state and county landfill fees will be sought by the city's trash and sludge hauler, Laidlaw Waste Systems.

A letter from City Attorney Mark Goldenberg saying the city won't re-negotiate its $700,000 contract with Laidlaw was given to David Hauser, the firm's division manager, at a meeting Thursday of the city's sanitation and inspection committee.

A three-year contract with Laidlaw was renewed last year by the City Council without taking bids.

The letter will be presented to the Illinois Environmental Protection Agency (IEPA) in hopes they will grant Laidlaw an exemption of a 45 cents per cubic yard fee placed on haulers for all solid waste received by licensed Illinois landfills, Hauser said. An exemption will also be sought for an additional 22½ cent per cubic yard fee imposed by Madison and St. Clair counties.

An exemption has been received for Laidlaw's contract in Collinsville and Edwardsville, Hauser said.

Trash collection of three additional cities has been added by Laidlaw since it's recent buy-out of GSK Corp., Hauser told the committee.

Calcium only a partial solution to osteoporosis

Despite all the talk to the contrary, taking calcium is only part of the solution for preventing osteoporosis, a brittle bone disease particularly common among post-menopausal women.

While adequate calcium nutrition is important for women of all ages, calcium alone does not appear to prevent severe bone loss in the immediate post-menopausal period.

In addition to about 1,500 milligrams daily calcium intake, these women need small dosages of estrogen, said researchers at a three-day seminar on osteoporosis research at the National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Md.

The conference was co-chaired by Williams A. Peck, M.D., physician-in-chief of Jewish Hospital at Washington University Medical Center and president of the National Osteoporosis Foundation.

While the meeting identified many aspects of osteoporosis needing further research, it concluded that increased calcium intake is most important for adolescent and young women, who are in the process of building their skeletons, and for elderly women, who may require more of this mineral because their bodies have a difficult time absorbing it.

For women undergoing estrogen replacement therapy, taking calcium allows them to use a smaller dose of estrogen, thereby minimizing some of the side effects from the hormone therapy.

A decrease in bone density, which occurs most rapidly during the five- to 10-year period following menopause, can make bones break easily.

Osteoporosis, which means "brittle bones," is a major cause of hip fractures, which have devastating consequences.

Nearly 250,000 hip fractures each year in the U.S. are attributable to osteoporosis, and 12 to 20 percent of hip fracture patients die during the six months following the injury.

Only one-quarter of hip fracture sufferers fully recover, while half need assistance in carrying out everyday activities six months later.

Treating of hip fractures, including nursing home charges, accounted for $7 billion to $10 billion in health care costs in 1986.

At the conference, osteoporosis was described as a disease with many causes and risk factors, most needing more research for adequate definition.

However, calcium supplementation, either through eating foods rich in calcium or by taking calcium pills, was recommended as a stopgap measure.

Researchers cautioned, however, that most commercial calcium supplements and calcium-enriched foods have not been tested to determine whether the calcium they contain is in a form the body can absorb.

Louis V. Avioli, M.D., director of the Division of Bone and Mineral Metabolism at Jewish Hospital, St. Louis, recommended to the NIH gathering of 700 scientists that consumers be protected from false calcium claims, through government testing and regulation of calcium supplements.

He warned that some of the calcium formulations will pass through the body before any benefit is derived, and that some compounds of bone meal and dolomite are contaminated with dangerous substances such as lead and arsenic.

Researchers also presented evidence that most people must readily absorb calcium supplements if they are taken with meals, rather than at night.

People who have no stomach acid, a condition known as achlorhydria, should take their calcium supplements at meal time, researchers said.

One study on calcium supplements showed that those made of calcium carbonate and formulated without a coating which makes them easier to swallow probably perform better than most formulations. Compounds containing calcium citrate-maleate worked slightly better than calcium carbonate. Research also showed that calcium absorption is poor from spinach, one vegetable which contains high levels of calcium. While calcium is present, it is not in a form which the body can use, a study showed.

Homeowners may save on taxation

Owning a home is an expensive proposition in today's economy. But in many instances, a home is more than a home; it is an investment, too. The following tax tips from certified public accountants (CPAs) can help homeowners make the most of this investment when filing their 1986 tax returns.

Specific tax deductions that may be available to homeowners include mortgage points, home equity loan interest and real estate taxes. These can save tax dollars if specific criteria are met.

Mortgage points may be deductible on your tax return. If, in 1986, you paid points on a loan to buy your principal residence, not an additional home, you may be able to take a full deduction. To qualify for this, you must meet three criteria: the loan must be secured on your principal residence, points must be a common practice in your geographical area and the points you paid cannot exceed the average fees for loans in your area.

If you refinanced your home, or if you purchased a second home, you may be able to take a partial deduction. In this case, each point is equal to 1 percent of the amount borrowed and is usually amortized (gradually deducted) over the life of the mortgage. For example, if you secured a 30-year mortgage, each point is deductible to the extent of 1/30 of the fee paid in 1986. Depending on the amount borrowed and the number of points paid, this can add up.

All homeowners are eligible for the mortgage interest deduction. When you take out a mortgage, your monthly payments may include principal payments, interest, fire insurance and taxes. Of that payment, your interest and taxes are deductible. At the end of the year, your bank will send you a statement of precisely how much interest and taxes were paid over the year. Don't forget to deduct this on your tax return.

If you sold your house in 1986, you may have elected to pay off your mortgage. If you did, and were charged a prepayment penalty, that penalty is totally deductible on your tax return. However, if within two years you bought a new home that was less than the cost of selling your other home, you will have to pay taxes on any realized capital gains. The cost of any home improvements you made in 1986 can be used to reduce the gain. If you're older than 55 and meet certain requirements, you can elect to exclude up to $125,000 of the gain.

Another deduction available to homeowners is for the interest paid on a home equity loan in 1986. Based on the market value of your home after subtracting what you owe through any outstanding mortgages, this money can be used to finance anything. After Aug. 16, 1986, you cannot deduct interest on loan amounts exceeding the original cost of your house plus any improvements, except for medical and educational purposes. ATZ

Depending on your personal financial situation, these and other deductions could save a substantial amount on your tax bill. If you need more information on these and other deductions available to homeowners, contact a CPA, the society advises.

Scale poses threat to trees, shrubs, but can be treated

Trees and shrubs are valuable assets to homeowners. But they cannot move about in search of needed food and water or escape destructive insects.

Supplying water and nutrients and diagnosing tree problems early is vitally important in order to prevent pathogens and adverse environmental conditions from causing severe damage to landscape plants. Proper pruning, fertilization and mulching protects plants from destructive pests, thus improving plant vigor and health. Early spring is a perfect time to examine twigs, branches and trunks of trees and shrubs and needles of pines for an insect called scale.

Scale infestation is a severe problem on many landscape plants in this area. Scale is tiny—usually less than 1/8 inch in diameter—whitish gray, sometimes brownish, flattened discs like insect that lacks legs, eyes and antennae.

They live under a covering formed of wax secretions and shed skins. Scale feeding begins as they become attached to a plant and begin sucking sap. Watch for a sticky substance called honeydew that coats branches and leaves; scale insects secrete this substance. Honeydew is a sure sign of scale infestation. Left unchecked, it will attract ants which will protect the scale. Scale also weakens and, in some cases, kills plants. Branch dieback, low plant vigor and yellowing needles on pines are common symptoms of scale damage. Close examination of plant parts is necessary. A magnifying glass can be helpful.

There are many types of scale affecting different species of plants. In this area, oaks—especially pin oaks—are very susceptible to scale feeding. Other plants include apple, ash, peach, maple, hawthorn, dogwood, birch, Austrian pine, Scotch pine, mugho pine, lilac, quince and euonymus. These plants, as well as others, should be examined for the presence of scale. Control of scale insects can be difficult. Rarely does one application completely eradicate the insect. Successive sprays over a few seasons are necessary to control this pest.

Neem oil is one of the most effective and safest chemicals available to control scale, aphids and other insects. Insecticidal oil, sometimes called dormant oil, is applied during the dormant season before new leaves mature in late winter and early spring. A combination of oil and insecticides are mixed and can be applied to actively growing plants when scale is in its "crawler" stage, usually the end of May in the St. Louis area.

Homeowners can maintain smaller plants, but as trees and shrubs become larger, spray materials can be applied best by tree care professionals, or arborists.

The wise homeowner can best maintain the vigor and health of landscape plants by examining plants closely throughout the growing season for the presence of insects and diseases, and taking proper action to eradicate such pathogens.

Gardeners: Learn to look for what's not expected

To get along with Mother Nature, gardeners must learn to cope with the unexpected and to accept any surprises she may dish out.

Recent times are a good example. There have been unusually warm temperatures, followed by cold, windy days. The temperatures could drop low enough to cause frost that would do considerable damage to many plants.

A few warm days lead one to want an early start in the garden. Rushing the season can be a mistake, but some steps can be taken to cut losses.

Tender plants set out too early may not be killed by frost, but if temperatures become too low, root damage can occur. When this happens, plants are delayed in flowering or fruiting. Although the plant may not die, the period of time after soil temperatures rise for the plant to develop sufficient roots to resume normal growth. Color in the plant will turn from a deep green to a light, sickly yellow.

Uncontrolled insect infestations also may greatly reduce fruiting and flowering. Excess watering, occurring on a plant that receives insufficient moisture, can delay production. Excess water can lead to exclusion of air, resulting in damage to the fine-root system.

It is important to avoid or minimize these problems by first preparing the soil so plants will have an ideal media to form an active root system, as well as the nutrients needed for steady growth. Soil tests may be required to determine the nutrients needed for a specific purpose. Sufficient organic matter is also necessary for the bacterial action that helps convert nutrients into a form plants can absorb.

A mulch such as black plastic or fiber may be laid over a planting area several days before planting. The black absorbs the sun's rays and helps warm the soil. This warmth at night also aids in raising temperatures near the surface. Plants set out early may be covered early enough before nightfall that enough heat will be collected to carry them through until sunrise.

Plastic bottles with the bottoms cut out are ideal for this. If material such as plastic or cloth is used, some support may be needed to keep the weight of the plant. These materials should be removed after the sun is up but do not delay too long. Burning could occur from the excessive heat.

Mulches such as straw, compost, ground bark or leaves may be used to help growth. If applied too early in the season, they can keep soil too cool for good growth. They should be used after the soil has warmed sufficiently; the mulch acts as a barrier, keeping the soil temperature from dropping rapidly when sudden temperature fluctuations occur. Apply a light mulch at first, increasing it once the plants have developed more.

Mulches also aid in maintaining uniform soil moisture near the surface, which benefits the plants. Less watering is also required because moisture will not evaporate as quickly as in an unmulched area.

Temperatures also affect insects. Insects begin to appear once growing weather starts. Control of weeds and removal of debris around the garden will mean fewer problems. A careful daily watch for insects will provide early notice of their arrival so plants can be treated before the insects have a chance to populate and cause damage.

A healthy, well-grown plant will have fewer problems. It should be able to withstand most temperature changes and will be less prone to insects and disease.

Do you have problems with your garden or household plants? If so, direct your questions to: The Garden Spot, St. Louis News Service, 1215 Fern Ridge Parkway, Suite 108, St. Louis, Mo. 63141.

Alyssum starts indoors during early springtime

Sweet alyssum seeds may be sown in early spring. You can sow the seeds indoors to get an early start and transplant them to the garden later. Be sure to read the seed packet and/or seed catalog instructions for precise information on planting time. Plant approximately four to six weeks before the last frost date.

If you plan to start the seeds in the garden, sow them when danger of frost is over.

Follow these basic steps in planting sweet alyssum:

- Seed sowing is easy—just read the directions on the seed packet of the variety you've chosen.
- If you sow indoors for transplanting, there is no need to cover the seeds. If you sow directly outdoors, rake the seeds gently into the planting bed or cover with a thin layer of fine soil no more than 1/8-inch thick.
- You can maintain a temperature of 65 to 75 degrees Fahrenheit until germination occurs in seven to 15 days if you are growing plants indoors. Lower the temperature after germination to promote sturdy growth of seedlings.

• Thin the emerging plants to 4 to 8-inch spacings if you are directly outdoors. The plants will soon spread to fill in the spaces. Plants grown indoors can be spaced more closely.

• Water young sweet alyssum seedlings carefully, just as you would with any seedling to prevent damping off, or rotting from a fungus infection favored by too much moisture.

• Transplant seedlings grown indoors four to six weeks after sowing. Flowers should bloom six to 10 weeks from sowing, depending on variety and other conditions. Check packet and seed catalog for information on the variety you've chosen.

Not all home offices get tax breaks

Millions of Americans work from their homes each year; however, not all work areas qualify for a tax deduction.

"Taxpayers should be very cautious when calculating income tax deductions based on office space," said Patricia Dollar, a consumer education specialist. "The Internal Revenue Service does not always see things the way we do."

In general, the home office must pass these tests, Dollar says:

- Self-employed workers and employees are eligible only if they use a specific part of their homes exclusively and regularly for their jobs. The only exception to the exclusive test is the part of the taxpayer's home used for storage of inventory and the part of the home used as a day-care facility.

For instance, if you are a free-lance artist and worked in the family room, it is not convenient for you to watch television, the deduction would not apply. Because the office must be used on a regular basis, working there two nights a week on your investment records does not qualify.

- The part of your home in business must be the principal place of business for any trade or business in which you engage. You may have a principal place of business for each trade or business, if you earn more than half of your working hours in the home office, you may benefit from the deductions.

• You may benefit from deductions if you regularly use your home office space to meet clients, patients or customers even though you carry on business at another location. This applies only to office visits by clients. It does not apply to a room where phone calls are received. Doctors, lawyers and beauticians are business owners who usually meet their clients.

The home office deductions can also include many of the costs incurred in establishing an office space. These deductions may include a portion of rental payment or mortgage, real estate taxes, depreciation costs, insurance, repairs, and utilities and services. You should also remember expenses such as telephone answering services or computer equipment are also tax deductible.

- You may claim deductions for a separate structure that is not attached to your house or residence used in connection with your business or trade," Dollar said. "This structure does not have to be your principal place of business but must be used exclusively and regularly for your business. For example, a photographer uses exclusively and regularly a separate studio behind his house as a dark room for developing pictures and creating his designs. He may benefit from the home use deductions."

"If you feel you have allowable home office deductions, check with a tax consultant to make sure you reap the benefits of working at home," she advised.

IRS Publication 587, "Business Use of Your Home," can provide assistance in determining business deductions, she said.

"Business use of your home is the type of situation the IRS is liable to assess carefully and perhaps even audit," Dollar said. "If you do operate your business from your home, it's best to seek professional advice before filing your taxes and maintain accurate records supporting your deductions."

Constitution gardens say it with flowers

On Sept. 17, the nation will celebrate the bicentennial of the U.S. Constitution. Americans will commemorate this event in many ways—from picnics, parades and fireworks displays to "living legacies." Bicentennial chairman Warren Burger, former chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court, has asked every U.S. community to create a "Constitution Garden."

A living legacy can be created in a variety of ways: establishing a new garden, restoring an existing park, planting the town square, refurbishing the grounds of a public building, reclaiming a vacant lot, creating a garden for the handicapped or sponsoring a children's garden. Clubs, groups, community leaders and individuals can encourage participation in beautifying their towns, cities and villages with plants and flowers.

To carry out the spirit of the bicentennial celebration, communities also are encouraged to plant a flower bed in red, white and blue. These flower beds could spell out the name of the community, depict its logo, or be a simple design of waves or concentric circles. Bedding Plants

There are red and white begonias, dianthus, geraniums, impatiens, nicotiana and zinnias. Brodiaea and ageratum come in both blue and white. There is white sweet alyssum and vinca, and blue lobelia.

Ask a local bedding plant merchant for advice or request the free brochure outlining a design and a list of plants and planting tips by writing to: Bicentennial, Bedding Plants Inc., 210 Cartwright Blvd., Massapequa Park, N.Y., 11762. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped, business-size envelope.

Marigold seeds simple to grow

Marigold seeds are large, easy to handle and germinate reliably in warm, moist soil.

They can be sown directly in garden soil after the soil has warmed to 70 degrees. Soil should be tilled so it drains and has a fine, loose texture. Dig a furrow about 2 inches deep with the corner of a garden hoe. Water the furrow slowly to soak the soil. Scatter seeds in the furrow about an inch apart. Cover lightly with dry soil, sand or vermiculite. Water again with a fine mist. Continue watering with a fine spray for 10 to 14 days when seedlings should appear. Water less frequently but apply more water to encourage deep root growth as seedlings grow. The seedlings can be transplanted to other garden locations.

If garden soil is fertile and rich in organic matter, supplemental feeding may not be necessary. Overfeeding or a rich organic soil can result in vegetative growth and a lack of flowering. The plants will flower in six to 12 weeks from sowing, depending upon variety and weather conditions.

Marigolds are best started indoors and transplanted into the garden. Sow seeds eight weeks prior to planting outside and maintain uniform moisture.

GREAT TASTE is the main reason for serving seafood. The bonus is that it is easy to cook a dinner that will receive rave ratings in its review.

Elegant seafood dramatic

Seafood dishes should be dramatic as well as easy to prepare. Crab Imperial Stuffed Shrimp and its companion Crab Imperial Stuffed Flounder fulfill these expectations. "Easy" in this case means readily available ingredients, fast to put together, make-ahead options and a minimum of dishes.

Both recipes rely on a richly flavored crab or surimi mixture. In one it is dolloped onto large butterfied shrimp and for the other it forms the filling for lean flounder fillets. Bake or broil and serve with homemade Louisiana Hot Sauce.

The basic crab filling allows many variations. Seafood surimi is a blended seafood product made primarily of mild white fish and flavored by adding real crab to the fish, adding crab extract or by adding imitation crab flavoring.

On the eastern shore of Maryland, Crab Imperial is traditionally baked in individual blue crab shells or shallow baking dishes. It is served as a main dish or, sometimes, as an appetizer. The crab filling in the recipe is excellent served this way. Any species of crab can be used. Each lends its own characteristic flavor.

A good way to gauge quality of fresh fish is to smell it. There should be only a mild, fresh odor. Look for shrimp meat that is firm and crab meat and surimi that are moist, rather than dry or brittle. Fish fillets should have firm, elastic flesh and a fresh-cut appearance with no browning or drying around the edges. If the flesh has separated (See SEAFOOD, Page 6C)

SPICE TO LIFE: When the season comes around with the lure of stable, warm weather, but no excursion is planned, brighten dinner time with the spicy appeal of the Southwest.

Brighten menu with Southwestern tastes

When winter cannot decide if it is staying or leaving, it is March. If a spring break to Arizona is out of the question, add a touch of the sunny Southwest to meals.

Ordinary tacos get a snappy lift with Chili Tortilla Cups. Crunchy tortilla cups are stuffed with a hot chili filling and topped with lettuce, tomato and cheese to create a festive meal.

Chili tortilla cups

- 1 lb. ground beef
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1 tsp. cumin seed
- 1 1/2 cups vegetable juice
- 1 can (about 16 oz.) kidney beans, drained
- 4 cups shredded lettuce
- 1 cup shredded Monterey Jack cheese with jalapeno peppers
- 1/2 cup diced green pepper
- 1/2 cup diced tomato
- 8 Tortilla Cups or 16 taco shells

In 10-inch skillet over medium heat, cook beef and onion with chili and cumin until beef is browned and onion is tender, stirring occasionally to separate meat. Spoon off fat.

Stir vegetable juice and beans into meat mixture. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Simmer 15 minutes, stirring occasionally. Meanwhile, in large bowl toss together lettuce, cheese, green pepper and tomato. Add beef mixture. Toss to combine all ingredients.

To serve: Fill each tortilla cup with about 1 cup meat mixture or fill each taco shell with about 1/2 cup meat mixture. Garnish with additional Monterey Jack cheese, if desired.

Makes 8 cups filling, 8 individual taco salads or 16 tacos.

Tortilla Cup: On baking sheet, place ball of foil (4-inch diameter). In 10-inch skillet over high heat, in 2 tablespoons hot oil heat flour tortilla (8-inch diameter) 5 seconds on each side until tortilla is pliable and bubbles appear on surface. Drain on absorbent paper.

Immediately drape tortilla over foil ball on baking sheet. Bake 5 minutes or until golden. Remove from oven. Cool on foil.

Mexican sparieribs

- 4 lb. sparieribs, cut crosswise in 2 inch pieces
- 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
- 1/2 cup finely chopped green pepper

- 2 tsp. chili powder
- 2 medium cloves garlic, minced
- 2 tsp. oil
- 1 1/2 cups vegetable juice

- 2 tsp. red wine vinegar
- 1/2 tsp. black pepper
- 1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper

In 6-quart saucepan, cover sparieribs with cold water. Over high heat, heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Cover. Simmer 1 hour. Drain.

Meanwhile, in 1 1/2-quart saucepan over medium heat, in hot oil cook onion and green pepper with garlic and chili powder until tender.

Add oil, vegetable juice, wine vinegar, black and cayenne pepper. Heat to boiling. Reduce heat to low. Simmer 5 minutes.

In large roasting pan, arrange sparieribs. Pour sauce over sparieribs. Cover and refrigerate 4 hours or overnight.

Bake at 350° for 30 minutes, spooning sauce over sparieribs.

occasionally. Cut into bite-size pieces to serve. Makes 4 servings, 745 calories each.

Chili chicken bake

- 3 cups vegetable juice
- 2 tsp. oil
- 1 cup chopped onion

- 1/4 tsp. chili powder
- 1/4 cup chopped green chilies
- 2 tsp. cornstarch
- Oil
- 12 corn tortillas (6 inch)
- 2 cups chopped cooked chicken
- 3 cups shredded Monterey Jack cheese with jalapeno peppers

In 1-quart saucepan over medium heat, in 2 tablespoons oil cook onion with chili powder until onion is tender. Stir in but 1/4 cup vegetable juice and green chilies. In small bowl, combine 1/4 cup juice and cornstarch. Stir in saucepan. Reduce heat to low. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened.

Stir-fry beef with vegetables

Stir-fry cooking is a simple, yet unique, cooking technique which is quick, economical and nourishing. A wok can be used for the preparation of Onion 'N' Beef Stir-Fry, or the ingredients may be assembled in advance for the colorful entree to be prepared at the table in an electric skillet.

One and one-half pounds of beef is stretched to serve six hungry appetites. In-season vegetables—such as delicately flavored sweet onions, celery and carrots—help keep the cost low. As the vegetables are sautéed, paper-thin slices of flank or round steak marinate in a mix-ture of soy sauce, sherry wine, cornstarch and freshly ground pepper. The meat is quickly stir-fried, with additional soy sauce added to enhance the flavor.

For another quick meal with an oriental touch, try this ground beef entree, savory with onions, green pepper, tomatoes and celery.

Onion, beef stir-fry

- 1 1/2 lb. flank steak or round steak
- 4 tbsp. soy sauce
- 1 tsp. sherry
- 1 tsp. cornstarch
- 1 tsp. freshly ground pepper
- 5 tbsp. oil
- 2 (8 to 10 oz. each) Spanish onions, thinly sliced
- 3 medium carrots, sliced diagonally
- 2 stalks celery, sliced diagonally
- 1/2 cup water

Thinly slice beef on the diagonal; beef will slice best if partially frozen. Mix 3 tablespoons soy sauce, sherry, cornstarch and pepper. Pour over beef. Marinate while vegetables are sautéed. Heat 3 tablespoons oil in wok or skillet. Stir-fry onions until golden. Remove onions. Add carrots and celery. Stir-fry 2 minutes. Remove. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons oil. Add beef. Quickly stir-fry until redness disappears. Add onions, carrots, celery, remaining 1-tablespoon soy sauce and

Making sauce can be intimidating to novice

By Betty Sarati

Making sauces is often somewhat intimidating to a novice cook. Sometimes, even experienced cooks shy away from recipes including sauces. These recipes frequently seem to be time-consuming, require a double-boiler and rarely guarantee lump-free results. That is in addition to requiring the cook to stir constantly.

With a microwave oven, sauce making can be a breeze, rather than a chore. A simple glass measuring cup replaces a double-boiler to maximize ease of preparation, as well as quick clean-up.

To make about 1½ cups of medium white sauce, simply do the following: Place 2 tablespoons butter in a 2-cup glass measure. Cook on high 45 seconds to melt. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour. Cook on high 30 seconds.

Gradually stir in 1 cup milk; for a thinner sauce, use 1½ cups milk. Cook on high about 2 minutes, stirring once or twice during cooking, to prevent lumps. If you forget to stir, do not panic. Just get a small whisk and whisk away those lumps.

Conventionally, constant stirring is necessary because all the heat—and cooking—is on the bottom, so stirring prevents burning and scorching, as well as lumping. In a microwave oven, however, cooking takes place on top, bottom and all around, so occasional stirring is all that is required to distribute the heat evenly and to prevent lumping.

Basic white sauce is most versatile. Stir ¼ cup to ½ cup shredded cheddar cheese into the prepared sauce. Cook on 70 percent power (lower than full power because of the high protein of cheese) for another minute and blend until smooth. This makes a creamy cheese sauce, perfect for topping microwaved fresh vegetables.

To make white sauce into elegant Mornay sauce, add 1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon to the sauce mixture before cooking. Into the hot sauce, stir ¼ cup shredded Swiss cheese, 2 tablespoons grated parmesan cheese and 1 teaspoon parsley flakes. Cook on 70 percent power one minute, until cheeses melt, and sauce is heated through.

With the aid of a microwave oven, sauces are no longer just for company meals. The family can enjoy them every night. With a simple glass measure to speed preparation and clean-up, it will be time to the next garbage sale.

Use dry utensils when frying

Be sure cooking pot and utensils are dry when frying. Moisture can cause fat to spatter. When adding oil to utensils, fill it no more than one-third full. This allows space for bubbling.

Keep pan handles turned away from edge of range or counters. Never cover cooking utensil when heating oil. Never leave oil being heated or foods being fried unattended.

into sections. It is an indication that the fillet has been in the case too long. Frozen fish fillets are the same high quality as fresh. Thaw them slowly in the refrigerator for best results. The main rule of seafood cooking is "do not overcook." Fish and most shellfish are naturally tender. Overcooking dries and toughens them and their delicate flavors are lost. When heated, fish turns from translucent to opaque. It is perfectly cooked when it is opaque throughout and begins to flake when prodded with a fork. Shrimp turns bright pink when cooked. Crab meat and surimi are precooked and only need to be heated thoroughly.

Crab imperial stuffed shrimp

1 1/2 lb. large shrimp (24 to 27)
About 1/2 cup dried bread crumbs
Paprika
Butter

Crab imperial mixture

1/2 cup milk
1/2 tsp. butter
1 tsp. flour
1 egg, well beaten
1/2 tsp. dry mustard
1/2 tsp. cayenne pepper
1 tsp. seasoned salt
1/2 tsp. celery salt
1/2 tsp. black or white pepper
1/2 tsp. lemon juice
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
2 tsp. mayonnaise
2 tsp. fresh parsley, finely chopped
1 lb. crabmeat or surimi, flake style

In small pot, heat milk to boiling point.

In separate 1-quart pot, melt butter. Stir in flour. Pour heated milk into flour and butter mixture, beating with whisk until smooth and creamy. Cool.
Add egg, dry mustard, cayenne, seasoned salt, celery salt, black pepper, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, mayonnaise and parsley. Place fish (if using blue crab, remove cartilage) in large bowl. Add cream mixture, mixing well but gently.

Clam special from Jersey

1/2 cup vegetable juice (6 oz.), chilled
1/2 cup bottled clam juice
1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1 tsp. prepared horseradish
Cucumber slices

In covered blender container,

Peel and devein shrimp, leaving tail intact. Butterfly shrimp by splitting them down the back almost, but not all the way, through. Place split-side up in well-buttered baking pan.

Spoon equal portions of crabmeat mixture into shrimp cavity. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and paprika. Dot with butter. Bake 2 1/2 minutes in oven on lower rack at 500°. Broil about 1 1/2 minutes about 5 inches from source of heat until golden brown.

Serve with wedges of lemon or Louisiana Hot Sauce.
Makes 4 servings.

Crab imperial stuffed flounder

1 lb. flounder fillets, skinned, in 4 pieces
1/2 cup Crab Imperial mixture from previous recipe

To the crab imperial mixture add 2 tablespoons finely chopped red or green bell pepper.
Prepare crab imperial mixture as above, using half of all ingredients.

Rinse flounder fillets and pat dry. Spoon one-fourth the crabmeat mixture on each fillet. Roll into pinwheel shape starting at narrow end. Secure with toothpick, if needed.
Stand up in buttered baking pan. Sprinkle with bread crumbs and paprika. Dot with about 1 tablespoon butter.
Bake at 400° for 12 to 15 minutes until fish is opaque and begins to flake. Serve with wedges of lemon.
Makes 4 servings.

Louisiana hot sauce

2 tsp. butter
Juice of 1/2 fresh lemon (about 1 1/2 tsp.)
1/2 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. black pepper
1/2 tsp. pepper sauce, or to taste

Melt butter. Add lemon juice, salt, black pepper and pepper sauce.
Spoon over seafood at the table.
Makes about 1/2 cup.

blend juices, Worcestershire and horseradish until frothy.
Serve over ice cubes in 10-ounce glass. Garnish with cucumber slice.
Makes 1 cup, 55 calories.

Is it possible to have fast, healthful and great tasting meals? In this case, the answer is affirmative, using pork.

This week, through Feb. 7, is celebrated nationwide as Meat Week.

In its many boneless forms, lean pork offers recipe-ready convenience. Boneless chops, cutlets, tenderloin and mini-roasts provide quick meals for the time-conscious cook.

The small household can depend on this meat to know exactly how much meat will be available for eating. Do not be afraid to ask for cuts at the meat counter that will fit the household of two or a few.
Today's pork also fits into a balanced, healthful diet. Pork—rich in thiamin and other B vitamins—is surprisingly low in calories.

Pork Poor Boy

- 1 (1 lb.) boneless pork loin roast (See Note)
- 1/2 Coarsely ground pepper
- 1/2 lb. alfalfa sprouts
- 1/2 ripe avocado, peeled and sliced
- Small cucumber, thinly sliced
- 1 small tomato, sliced
- 2 oz. fresh spinach leaves
- 1/2 green pepper, seeded and sliced
- 1 (8 oz.) loaf Italian or French bread
- 2 tbsp. bottled Italian dressing, if desired

Some Straight Talk From Cencom Cable Television

Over the past several days there have been a variety of confusing and misleading articles and statements regarding our cable operations here in Illinois. We'd like to take this opportunity to "clear the air" and speak directly with you.

Our Goal

To provide the best cable television to you, the public, and to EXPAND the choices and services available to you.

We realize that change can sometimes be unsettling. But the changes we are implementing all have one thing in common—they will lead to better and expanded cable television service for you.

The Facts

Cencom Cable Television has:

- Added two additional cable services, a home shopping channel and The Discovery Channel, to our basic service at no extra charge. More new and exciting services will follow later in '87.
- Spent over $2,000,000 in technical and service improvements.
- Introduced a new, more sophisticated billing system.
- Installed a new, more responsive and efficient phone system.
- Nearing completion of the construction of 27 miles of new plant, which will bring cable service for the first time to over 1,300 additional homes.
- Continued to offer the largest Senior Citizen discount on cable service in the entire Southwestern Illinois/St. Louis area.

More Improvements On The Way

April will bring the following services to you for the first time ever:

- The St. Louis Cardinals Cable Network*
50 Cardinals games LIVE from Busch Stadium, available for a separate charge on either a season ticket or per game basis.
- Cencom Showcase*
A new option where subscribers can now order movies or sports special events and be charged separately on an individual, or pay-per-view basis. New release movies will include "Ferris Bueller's Day Off" in April and "Top Gun" in May. Also in April, fight fans will be able to order The Marvelous Marvin Hagler—Sugar Ray Leonard Superfight, a Cencom exclusive.

About The "PD-3"

Most of these exciting new service options would not be available without the installation on your television of the PD-3 device. While there is an installation fee, we would like to invite you to join over 17,000 of our subscribers who have already saved the $15.00 charge. Simply visit one of our convenient converter stores, pick up your easy-to-install PD-3, and enjoy cable as never before. And we'll explain how you can also get the most out of your cable ready set and VCR. (As always, Cencom will deliver and install at no charge the PD-3 to all subscribers who are disabled or handicapped. Please call our office to make arrangements.)

THE OLDEST section of Dubrovnik is set within stone walls and extends into the Adriatic. There are 43,000 people living in the Dubrovnik area.

Glory living within modern city

The winter sun shone so brightly on the blue Adriatic that had to squint to look at the inviting water. The Adriatic Sea is just one of hundreds of beautiful sites at Dubrovnik, Yugoslavia.

Although my stay was short, the picturesque city left unforgettable impressions, the atmosphere being an admirable marriage of old and new.

Dubrovnik was founded in the seventh century. The old part of the city is protected by imposing walls and sits atop a peninsula that juts into the Adriatic. This historic center of Dubrovnik is one of the best preserved medieval cities in the world. It is set under the immediate protection of the United Nations educational, scientific and cultural organizations.

And the city looks as it did during the Renaissance. Narrow, cobblestone streets are worn smooth from footprints. Hucky's Hill Gundulich Square from early morning to noon. And when the market disbanded at the stroke of 12, pigeons flock to the site in search of food, just as they have for hundreds of years.

Other edifices serve modern man in historically preserved settings.

Music lovers gather at Sponza Palace to hear chamber concerts. Civil marriages are performed there each Saturday.

Ristori, beauty salons and shops stocked with exquisite crystal, hand-embroidered clothes and delicate filigree jewelry line The Stradun (main street).

Those who say Venice is the queen of the Adriatic agree that Dubrovnik is the prince. It is one of Europe's most popular resorts. There's a jet set atmosphere in Dubrovnik but the hospitality of Yugoslav people makes anyone feel comfortable.

The luscious beach is a focal point for visitors during high season, which is July, August and September. Temperatures average 80 degrees. Rude sunbathing is allowed in selected areas along beaches.

Whether you take a holiday in Dubrovnik or visit surrounding cities, you're sure to agree with George Bernard Shaw, who said "Those who seek earthly paradise should come to Dubrovnik."

REO continues slick, loud music

There is a transitional American rock sound characterized by highly-polished, vocal harmonies and slick electric guitar riffs that appeared around the early 1970s.

Perhaps the leading exponents of this sound were Fleetwood Mac and The Eagles. But the field also included bands like Kansas, Boston and REO Speedwagon, whose latest LP, "Life As We Know It," testifies that an appetite for the style remains.

Produced by David DeVore, "Life As We Know It" consists almost exclusively of high-energy pop songs that have the same tired-old adolescent conflicts rockers have sung about for three decades.

The lion's share of the album's 11 songs were penned by lead guitarist and vocalist Kevin Cadogan. Typical is "One Too Many Girlfriends," in which the songwriter exhorts himself to grow up, as he wails away on guitar—channel left—while REO's other guitarist, Gary Richrath, does likewise on the right channel.

This kind of pop song was around long before Frankie Avalon thought about grasping a microphone. REO's variations aren't necessarily all that weak, but the record production consistently puts them in a poor light.

Hall's two free throws bring joy to Venice

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN — They talk about storybook endings, and one seemed to be shaping up Saturday night.

When the Venice Red Devils took possession of the ball with 1:40 left in the Illinois Class A state championship game, it was all tied at 54-54. Okawville's Darren Stine had just made one of two free throws, missing the second one seemingly just to make the ending as exciting as possible.

Venice coach Clinton Harris signaled for the Devils to hold the ball for one last shot, and everyone in the Assembly Hall knew who was going to take it. Jesse Hall was the man the Devils would look for to win the game and the championship.

Doug Dingwerth knew it, too. The Rockets' 6-2 senior guard was all over Hall, drawing his fourth foul with 1:01 left and sending the All-American guard to the free throw line. Hall missed, but Wilfred Wigfall came away with the rebound and Venice put the ball on ice again. They called a timeout with 21 seconds left, then came out for the final shot.

With senior co-captain Vincent Harris looking to penetrate into the paint with five seconds left, referee Richard Rokop's whistle pierced the air. He had called a foul away from the ball — again on Dingwerth — for pushing Hall. Hall went to the line and calmly sank both free throws, then the Devils watched as Jeff Luechtefeld's 24-footer bounced off the front of the rim as time expired.

The Venice Red Devils were the 1987 Illinois Class A State Basketball Champions. It was not quite the storybook ending everyone imagined, but the Devils will take it. A story-one second left. Or how about Luechtefeld, the son of Okawville coach Dave Luechtefeld, scoring his 30th and 31st points of the night to give the Rockets the title?

But a foul away from the ball turned out to be the deciding factor. "I was surprised they called it," Hall said. "He (Dingwerth) had been pushing on me the whole game. It was not very flagrant, but it was a foul."

"It was a nip and tuck game the whole way," said Dingwerth, who fouled out of the game on the call. "It's tough to make a call like that."

As Hall stepped to the free throw line, Venice's hopes for its second state championship — they won in 1975 — rested on his broad shoulders.

"I was just thinking about following through on my shot the way coach Harris taught us in practice," said Hall, whose 56 percent performance from the free throw line this season was hardly awe-inspiring. "I knew it would either go in or not go in, depending on what kind of night it was for us."

It went in, and so did the second shot, and it was a very good night for the Red Devils, who finished at 29-3 and the kings of Illinois small school basketball. (See CHAMPS, page 40)

Title ends long journey for Hall, starts another one

CHAMPAIGN — It has been building up to this for years.

So when Jesse Hall had a chance to give Venice a state championship, he didn't disappoint anyone. Not himself, not his teammates, not his coach and not his fans.

The Venice Red Devils' ride to the state championship was every bit the team effort Clinton Harris said it was. Tons of credit go to Vincent Harris, Dale Turner, Darryl Jackson, Wilfred Wigfall and Darryl Enia. And reserves like Orlando Love, Hosea King, Lionel Wiley, Kevin Gardner and John Magbuhanks also contributed when called upon.

But in the end, it all came down to the free-throw shooting of Hall. That might not be the most pleasant prospect for Venice fans, since Hall was a lowly 56 percent from the line this season. But these last two free throws of his high school career were a little different than the rest.

Sports Comment

He had missed some big ones before, like in the Charleston Super-Sectional against Teutopolis last season. He had even missed the front end of a one-and-one just 56 seconds prior to these last two.

But now it came down to this: If he missed here, Okawville might race down the court, score, and take the state championship home. Hall just simply couldn't afford to miss. He didn't. Both shots found nothing but net, and Jeff Luechtefeld's 24-footer at the other end fell short, and the season belonged to the Red Devils.

"I'm pretty confident every time I follow through on my free throws," said Hall. "I just wanted to come through in the closing moments for the team and for myself."

It was the end of a long journey for Hall, who had been looked to as a future star when he was still at Venice Elementary School. At that time, Madison was one of the dominant teams in the state, and Red Devil fans across town needed something to tip the scales in their favor.

Hall was the man, and he did it. The Trojans went to state just two years ago, but Hall had established himself as a definite future star. Last season, he finally gained statewide recognition with his tour de force in the Charleston Super-Sectional, although the Red Devils lost.

By then, Larry Graham was long gone at Madison and the Devils had emerged as the stronger of the two local rivals. When this season started, Hall — now a senior — was supposed to lead Venice to the promised land — or at least Champaign.

He averaged 25 points a game and was recognized as the finest player in the state and one of the best in the nation. He committed to Michigan State before the season started, so he and his teammates could concentrate on one thing.

That one thing came true Saturday night shortly after 9:30 when Luechtefeld's shot bounced off the rim and to the floor. Vincent Harris had done a remarkable job of floor leadership throughout the tournament.

Dale Turner ran the offense and stole the ball. Wilfred Wigfall got key rebounds and hit outside shots. Darryl Jackson somehow got his slender body inside for tough layups. But when all was said and done, it was Jesse Hall the one who was looked to many years ago to bring Venice basketball back — who had the final say.

It couldn't have happened any other way.

But less than 15 minutes after the game was over, Hall was already looking ahead to another challenge.

"I've dreamed about making the big shot in the NCAA Tournament," he said. "Michigan State lost more games this season than they ever have since Jud Heathcote took over as head coach. But they are in the Big Ten, the toughest basketball conference in the country. They lose their two starting guards to graduation this year, so look for a freshman from Venice, Ill., to log some playing time in East Lansing next season."

And don't be surprised if sometime in the next four years you see the Spartans in a tight NCAA tournament game, and the ball goes to that slick guard from Venice for the big shot.

It will probably hit nothing but net. And when he's asked if he dreamed about that, he'll probably say he dreamed about doing it in the NBA finals.

It would be a shame if any future Venice player were Jesse No. 23. If anyone does, he'll better be a useful good.

Semis

Devils squeak past Chrisman

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN Saturday night's championship game was a nail-biter, but the Red Devils faced their biggest crisis in the semifinals Saturday morning.

Venice trailed the Chrisman Cardinals by six points early in the fourth quarter and Jesse Hall was on the bench with four fouls. Things could hardly look much tougher than that.

But the Devils continued to find ways to win, and senior co-captain Vincent Harris sparked the rally as Venice came back for a 53-45 win. Hall returned in the final two minutes, but Venice was already ahead.

"We have confidence in our other players," coach Clinton Harris said. "Jesse is the player we look to in crucial situations, but we came back and took the lead in the fourth quarter with him on the bench."

It was 43-39 in favor of Chrisman the team that beat Madison in the quarterfinals two years ago — when Hall left after a charging foul with 6:37 left. But Dale Turner hit a 12-footer and Wilfred Wigfall left two Cardinals sprawled on the floor as he tied the game with a driving layup.

Harris stole the ball and fed Turner for a fast-break layup to give the Devils the lead, but Troy Hollingsworth tied the game with a jump shot with 3:54 left. It was to be Chrisman's final basket of the game, and

Hall, Harris are all-tournament

Jesse Hall and Vincent Harris of the Red Devils were named to the Associated Press All-Tournament team.

Voting was done by writers and broadcasters covering the Illinois Class A state finals last weekend in Champaign.

Hall scored 87 points in four tournament games (including the super-sectional) to tie with Chrisman's Walter Hout as the tournament's leading scorer. Harris scored 46 points in four games, including a team-leading 17 in the 53-45 semifinal win over Chrisman Saturday.

Okawville's Jeff Luechtefeld and Doug Dingwerth were also named to the first team. Luechtefeld had 29 points in the championship game. Hout and Beardstown's Matt O'Hara were also named to the all-tournament team.

The second team consisted of Venice's Dale Turner, Beardstown's Terry Morrow, Watseka's Dennis Miller, and Chrisman's Troy Hollingsworth and Troy Lunger.

their only two points of the fourth quarter.

"Their aggressiveness in the fourth quarter really was the difference," said Cardinal coach Roger Beals. "We had an opportunity to win the whole game, but their defense shut us down in the fourth quarter."

Sophomore center Darryl Jackson got the winning basket with 3:14 left. Chrisman missed on the next trip down the court, then Venice held the ball until Hall was fouled with 51 seconds left. He made them both, then the Devils pined on the points after a technical foul on the Chrisman bench after a substitute failed to report to the scorer's bench.

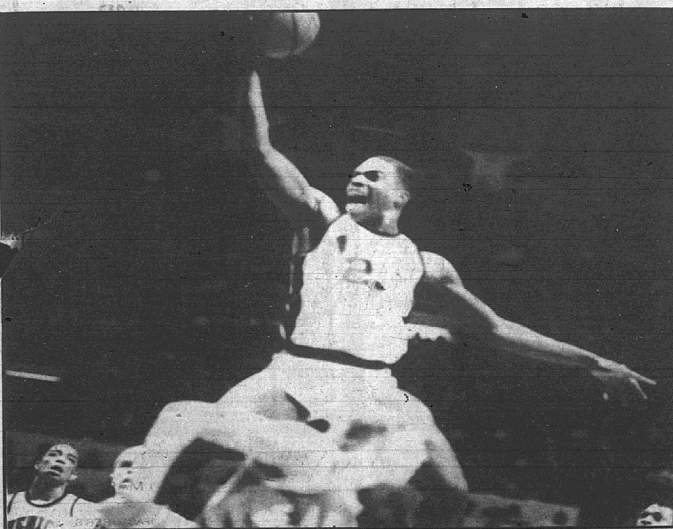

"I couldn't believe they called a technical at that point in the game," Beals said. "Our player had fouled out and we needed a substitute. It ruined an otherwise good game."

Harris made two free throws and Lionel Wiley added a layup in the final seconds to account for the final margin of victory.

"It was a tough game," Clinton Harris said. "We applied more defensive pressure in the fourth quarter and got some steals. We're a very well-conditioned ball club, and I think that had a lot to do with it. I kept asking if they were tired, and they said no."

Harris later admitted he was glad Chrisman went into a stall in the final seconds to account for the final margin of victory. "It helped the Devils catch their breath. But the stall wasn't very effective, as the Cardinals ended up rushing some shots."

Sports briefs

Crappie catch limited by DOC

A new Department of Conservation regulation limiting the size and number of crappie that may be taken from Lake Shelbyville will be in effect beginning April 1. The regulation prohibits the keeping of crappie (both white and black) less than nine inches in total length and limits the daily take to 25 crappie.

Taking their cue from crappie population problems in Lake Shelbyville's sister reservoir, Carlyle Lake, reservoir biologist Harry Wright and Larry Cruse began studying the crappie population in more depth to determine management needs.

Two trouble spots became evident after the data was analyzed: highly variable reproductive success and poor age and size structure in the population.

It appeared that white crappie were being caught before they had a chance to reproduce. Age analysis of the crappie collected in the survey revealed that few white crappie lived more than three years and few crappie were 10 inches or larger.

Since the biologists felt they could do little to directly alter reproductive success, the length and creel limit was proposed to correct the size and age structure problems.

The 25 creel limit was chosen as a compromise between the biological need to increase survival and angler desire to catch crappie.

Expected benefits of the regulation include increased spawning success, a spreading of the available harvest among anglers and an increase in the quality of the catch.

The crappie population will be carefully monitored by reservoir fishery biologists to determine whether the regulation achieves its purposes.

Also, other projects such as improving shoreline cover, enhancing forage fish populations and seeking U.S. Army Corps of Engineers cooperation to hold water levels steady during spawning, will be continued to improve crappie fishing.

Pat McBride's soccer camp announces dates

Six one-week sessions, including one for girls and another for high school boys, have been scheduled for the 19th season of the Pat McBride Soccer Camp.

Boys ages 6-17 can choose to attend one of the sessions beginning the weeks of June 7, June 14, June 21 or July 5. A week for high school boys is set for July 12, and another session for girls ages 6-17 is scheduled to begin July 26.

All sessions will be held at Lindenwood College in St. Charles, Mo.

McBride serves as the camp's managing director. He has coached and played soccer at Semis.

As they did in each game at Champaign, the Devils started slowly, trailing 16-12 after one quarter, as Chrisman used the offense of Troy Langer (the finished with 15 points) and Walter Hoult (14) to take a 16-12 lead. The game remained close in the second quarter and was tied at 33-33 at halftime.

Chrisman's slow style paid off in the third quarter. Venice made only two of 13 shots and scored four points. They were shut out for five minutes before Harris scored, but a rebound basket by Langer made it 43-37 for the Cardinals entering the fourth quarter.

"They were scoring inside on us," Clinton Harris said. "We just weren't boxing out on the boards, and they were getting easy shots. But you need some luck to win the tournament, and we might have gotten it in this game."

Neither team shot well in the game, as Venice was 21 of 53 (40 percent) and Chrisman was 21 of 50 (42 percent). But the Devils enjoyed a big edge at the free throw line as they made 11 of 20, while the Cardinals had only five free throws the entire game, making three.

"We wanted a thinking game rather than a reacting game," Beals said. "And we wanted to keep Jesse away from the basket. He's most effective in the 12-15 foot range, and we let him get there too much."

Hall had 14 points in the game, but Harris led the way, scooping clutch baskets to keep Venice close in the first three quarters.

"Wilfred Wigfall and I are the other seniors, so we have to be leaders when Jesse is on the bench," Harris said.

Register now for softball

The Granite City Park District is organizing softball leagues for play this summer. Organization meetings have been held and teams are registering in the Wilson Park Office.

Steve Kessel, director of parks and recreation, asks that any team that was a part of the park district leagues during the past season to please register the team for this season.

Even though the entry fee is not paid at that time, it is very necessary that the team register in order to know the number of teams that will be participating. Leagues must be set up and the new teams on a waiting list will be placed in the areas where there are openings.

Anyone wishing to manage a new team may call or stop in the office for information or to be placed on the list. This applies to all leagues — men's, women's, church, high school girls, high school boys and junior leagues.

Nelson's still accepting teams

Lord Nelson's is still accepting teams for men's or co-ed slow pitch softball for play on Tuesday through Friday evenings.

Please register as soon as possible so a spot may be saved for all teams. Part payment must be received by April 1 so that schedules may be made up.

For information about cost, schedules and rules, please contact Nelson Hediger at 931-6338.

Cougars sweep doubleheader

By Al Barnes

Correspondent
EDWARDSVILLE — Granite City's Daren DePew picked up right where he left off last spring, leading covers off the baseball. He led the Cougars of SIUE to a season-opening doubleheader sweep over Culver-Stockton College Sunday afternoon. The Cougars won both games 2-1.

DePew delivered key hits in both games to give his team a running start on the season.

In the opening game, it was DePew's double in the fifth inning which broke a 1-1 tie and gave the Cougars their first victory of the season.

In the second game, he had a double to give the Cougars a 1-0 lead. After the Wildcats tied the score on pair of singles, DePew capped his day with a solo home run in the sixth. DePew finished the day with three hits in five trips.

In addition to his key hits and his sturdy catching, he threw out two runners attempting to steal. In the first game, left-hander Tony Duenas gained the victory as he retired 17 batters before Culver-Stockton broke through with a single in the sixth inning. Chuck Floarke posted the win in the second game although he pitched just three innings.

All-American

TODD ADAMITIS of Granite City receives a certificate and jacket from University of Connecticut soccer coach Joe Morrone for being named to the National Soccer Coaches Association of America All-America Team. Adamitis, a fullback for the Warriors, was one of 373 players honored nationwide in youth, secondary, junior and senior college divisions. The awards, sponsored by New Balance Athletic Shoe Inc., were presented during the NSCAA annual convention in Boston. Adamitis led the Warriors in scoring last year and will attend Wright State University on a soccer scholarship this fall.

Red Devils took the 'tate championship'

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

CHAMPAIGN — Random thoughts on last weekend's Class A state tournament:
The Red Devils, who almost got lost on their way to the Charleston Super-Sectional last Tuesday, had more misadventures sometime between the presentation of the championship trophy and their return home Sunday. The "s" was missing off the word "state" on the trophy, so Venice was officially won the 1987 Class A "Tate Championship."

The meeting between Venice and Okaville confirmed the fact that the best small school basketball in the state is played south of Champaign. Eleven of the 16 Class A titles have been won by schools in the southern part of the state. This year, Providence St. Mel was the only Chicago school given a good chance to win.

The Red Devils and Rockets played in the first-ever all-St. Louis area Class A title game, and it was one of the most exciting ever.

Okaville's players and coach Dave Luchtefeld showed a ton of class after the championship game. The winning free throw by Jesse Hall came after a foul called away from the ball — a call you would rarely see at any time of any game, much less the last five seconds of the state title game with the game tied.

But the Rockets took it very well. Luchtefeld wasn't happy with the call, but he didn't hang the officials out to dry. And Doug Dingwerth, who committed the foul, made himself available to writers outside the locker room. Then, half an hour after the game, the entire Okaville team filed into the Venice locker room to congratulate the winners.

Congratulations to Luchtefeld, who has taught his players more than basketball. They left the Assembly Hall as winners, too.

Venice can now match cross-town rival Madison with two state titles. The Red Devils got the jump by winning in 1975 under the guidance of current Trojan coach Rich Essington, but Madison monopolized the rivalry for the next ten years, taking two state crowns and keeping Venice from winning a regional until last year.

Several of this year's Venice players remember the 1975 title. "I was up here rooting for them," said Vincent Harris, who was in kindergarten. "I promised myself when I was growing up that we were going to beat Madison and get a state title for ourselves."

Park umpires meet March 23

The Granite City Park District will be holding a baseball umpire's clinic March 23 at 7 p.m. at the Brown Recreation Center.

All persons interested in umpiring baseball this summer are urged to attend as rule changes and positioning will be covered. The clinic will be led by former Granite City High School baseball coach and major league baseball scout Babe Champion.

For more information, contact Alan Gerard at 876-0806 or the Wilson Park Office at 877-3059.

"I was only five years old," Dale Turner said. "I don't remember it that well. But I was in Madison growing up. I remember when they won up here."

The euphoria over the state title might have raced to Lionel Wiley's head a little too fast. When the subject of baseball was brought up, Wiley had a prediction to make.

"We're going to state in baseball, too," said the Devils' reserve forward. Well, hold on a minute. Venice has the best small school basketball team in the state, but they have a ways to go in baseball. Still, Wiley, Turner, Orlando Love and a couple others might be able to sustain that winning attitude over into the spring. It could help a little.

At press time, East St. Louis Lincoln had yet to play Mt. Vernon in the Carbondale Class AA Super-Sectional Tuesday night. If the Tigers could win it all, we could have two state champs from our immediate area.

Well, how about a "unification bout"? Well, neither team would want to do it, and the IHSA probably wouldn't allow it, but it's fun to think about it. The Tigers and Red Devils are scheduled to play again next year, however.

The semifinal win over Chrisman was Clinton Harris' 100th win at Venice. He finished his fourth season with the Red Devils with a 101-26 mark, and has been talked about as a possible college coach. That could be, but I think he will want to continue to coach at Venice as long as he has the current group of players. I can't see him leaving until this year's sophomores graduate. If then.

The Red Devils headed for Champaign with only two losses, but returned home with three. They still got the state title, but they received a forfeit loss from Jan. 28 game in Brooklyn when a brawl ended the game between Venice and Lovejoy late in the first quarter with the Red Devils ahead, 17-12. Harris pulled his team off the court when Daryl Jackson and Wilfred Wigfall suffered injuries during the brawl. Harris wasn't overly pleased with the IHSA decision, but there is a possibility it will be ruled a double forfeit, with Lovejoy also getting a loss tacked on to its record.

"I was just praying to God that Jesse would make those free throws," said Vincent Harris, who had 13 points in the title game. "Then I saw the look in his eyes and I knew he was going to make them."

"I knew he was going to make them," echoed guard Dale Turner. "We shoot a lot of free throws in practice."

"We wanted to spread our offense out with Jesse in the middle," said coach Clinton Harris. "But we froze out there before they fouled Jesse. I was surprised we got a pushing foul called. Their player thought Vincent was about to throw the ball to Jesse. I thought a foul would only come on a shot or a rebound."

"You just don't make a call like that in that situation," said Dave Luechtefeld, who handled the situation with a ton of class. "The referee knows that now."

Hall finished with 19 points in the game, 10 fewer than Jeff Luechtefeld. The Rockets' senior forward had 29 points and was the outstanding player in the game. He had a final chance to send the game into overtime. He got the ball on the left wing 24 feet out, but his shot bounced off the front of the rim as time expired and Venice fans went wild.

"Jeff had a little more time than he thought," Dave Luechtefeld said. "There was still one second left when his shot hit the rim. But we have to remember the good things from this season."

The Red Devils won't have any problem remembering the good things.

A run-and-gun team that frequently flew out opponents during the regular season, that didn't happen in the post-season except for the 8-23 quarterfinal win over Pearl City Friday. They overcame a six-point fourth-quarter deficit to defeat the semifinals against Chrisman Saturday morning, then battled tooth and nail with Okawville.

SCORING
OKAWVILLE	16	13	15	12-58
VENICE	16	13	15	12-58

Okawville: Luechtefeld 29, Dingwerth 16, Stine 15, Bue 13, Turner 8 (5 steals), Blackman 7, PO-34, PT-6, PF-11.

Venice: Hall 19 (15 steals), Harris 13 (4 steals), Turner 8 (5 steals), Jackson 7, PO-25, PT-6, PF-11.

Luechtefeld started off with the hot hand, and never lost it. The Rockets, who finished at 29-7, took a 12-6 lead. But the Devils bounced back to take a 16-15 lead on Harris' layup. But Luechtefeld made it 17-16 after one quarter.

Hall got two baskets to start the second quarter, but missed a slam dunk attempt seconds later, and the momentum shifted back to the Rockets.

"I couldn't get the traction on the floor here for that last big step," Hall said.

Okawville ran off a 10-2 streak to take a 27-22 lead, but a rebound basket by Daryl Jackson and Wigfall's three-point play tied the game, and the two teams went to the locker room in a 29-29 deadlock.

Venice went ahead on a Hall stuff and took a five-point lead behind baskets from Harris and Turner. Then Hall stole the ball and went in for a behind-the-back jam for a 44-37 Devil lead with 2:33 left in the third quarter.

Luechtefeld and Stine came back to make it 44-41 after three quarters, but each time the Rockets cut the lead to a single point. Venice came back for a three-point edge. Hall's jumper made it 50-45 with 5:34 left, but a Rocket timeout led to three straight baskets and a 51-50 Okawville lead.

The lead changed hands three more times as Harris and Wigfall sandwiched baskets around one by Dingwerth, and Venice led 54-53 until Daryl Bue fouled Stine on a drive to the basket with 1:40 left. Stine made the first, but missed the second, and the Devils went into the delay game that eventually led to the win.

Venice assistant coach Rick Everage Friday after the rout of Pearl City. "We wanted to have possession in the last minute, because we knew they were going to sit on it. They were going to go to the big boy (Luechtefeld) for the win. When I heard the whistle, I didn't know what the call was. Any-
